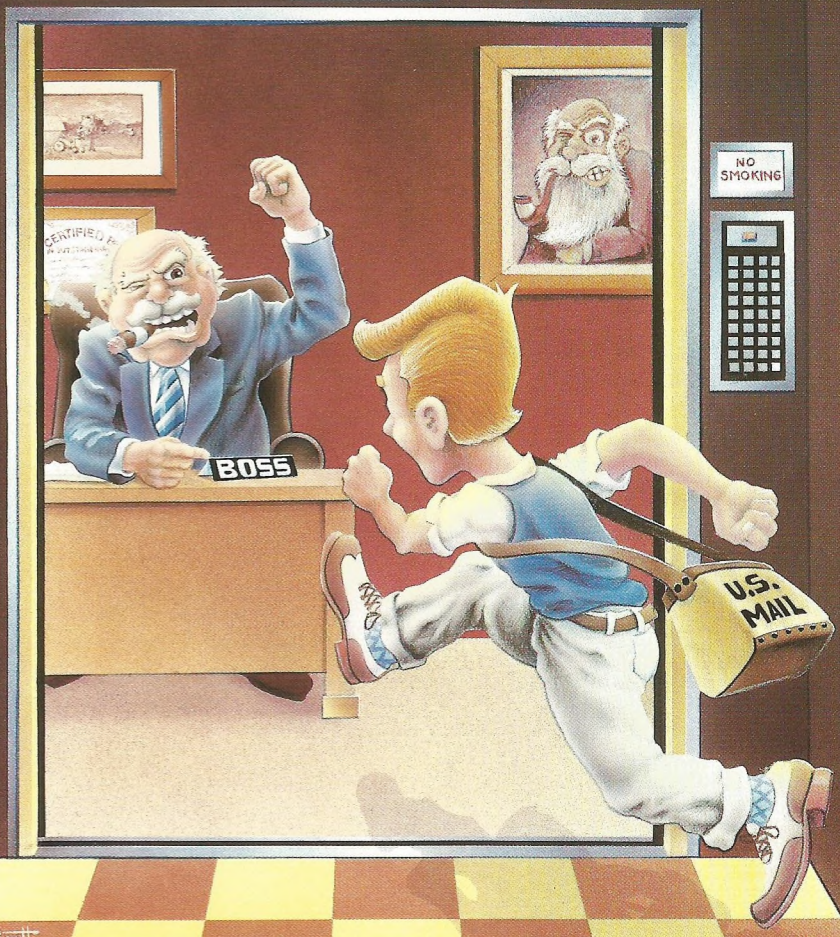
COHEN'S TOWERS™

By Frank Cohen



Help Allen, the mailboy, on his rise up the corporate elevator!

by Frank Cohen

TO: Allen, my nephew
FROM: The Boss

O.K. Allen — you asked me for a job two summers ago and I didn't hire you. You asked me for a job last summer and I didn't hire you. So what do you do? You ask me for a job this summer! Well — I'm proud of you, my boy! That's what I call perseverance! And because you never gave up, I'm hiring you as Mailboy — a very important job!

You'll start at FANDA, and if you do a good job I'll promote you to DATAMOST. I have one other building, COHEN'S TOWER, but you'll probably never get that far. It's not easy delivering the mail around here!

Look for my dog, Fear. You'll have to jump over him if you want to keep working. And you better keep working! I'll be watching your every move, Allen, so just do your job — don't play around with my Secretary — and watch for Bobby, the "Corporate Spy" (he'll try to steal the mail).

O.K. Allen — the job's yours. Now get to work!
